- Rooms: various capacities, en suite; no tariff details
- Wifi: no details
- Parking: on site, secure
- Train: (advice from the Marist Brothers) Take the train from Lyon (Part-Dieu station) to St Etienne. Alight at St Chamond, the third stop. It takes about 40 minutes. Then call the Hermitage. Allow 15 minutes for transport to arrive. Taxicab can only be called with prior booking and there are no waiting taxis at the St Chamond station. Train fare is about €9 one way and tickets are purchased by machine or over the counter. Trains leave every half hour.
- Other info:

Travel tips

Money, credit cards, ATMs, etc

Currency is Euro

Have a quick, approximate currency conversion formula (eg €3 = AUD 4)

On the Internet, try 'XE currency converter' (www.xe.com)

ATMs

There are plenty of ATMs (except in remote areas, eg Bugey mountains)

ATMs have lower charges than 'exchange' places at airports and railways

Select your language option early

Credit/debit cards

Work well in most places

Do not work in some shops (incl some supermarkets) and some tollways (so best to have adequate currency on hand)

Driving

Presupposed: the best way of getting around the Marist Places is in a car/van with GPS or a knowledgeable driver/guide

European configuration: left-hand drive, right side of the carriageway (opposite to Australia, New Zealand, Thailand, Singapore, Hong Kong, et al)

Rental cars are usually manual drive; gear shift to the right of the driver

Request automatic drive in advance if you cannot handle manual

Windscreen wiper and light control/turn indicator stalks are opposite to most RH drive cars (be patient with yourself in adjusting to this)

If you are a first-time LH driver take extra care when cornering or parking for the first day or two at least

Petrol stations in some places may be few, and closed at night; some have self-serve facilities, but a credit card is needed

Rental cars

Online bookings using, eg, www.booking.com are reliable

If flying to Lyon: Lyon St Exupéry airport (formerly Satolas) has very good rental car options

If traveling by train (eg from Rome, Paris, Geneva): Lyon Part-Dieu has good rental car services

Car needs to re-fuelled before return (otherwise exorbitant fuel charge)

When returning to the airport, look for the signs 'Voitures de location' (= rental cars); switch off the GPS ('push control bottom, then 'cancel route') on arriving at the airport precincts, and focus on following these signs

Lyon St Exupéry airport petrol station has been closed for renovation (late 2013); there are two petrol stations not far from the airport on D306 at St Laurent de Mure (GPS: St Laurent de Mure / Ave de Moulin / 15); there are almost opposite one another, in case one is closed.

GPS

If necessary, familiarise yourself with its working before leaving the rental place; you may need to start the motor first

Ask for assistance from the rental staff, as needed.

Set your language and preferred (male or female) voice

Click 'no' when asked 'do you wish to avoid tolls'; it may be a false economy to save on toll fees only to be taken on longer/dubious alternative routes

Tollways (FR: 'péage')

Tolls vary from ca €3.50 to €6.60

Take ticket from the first point; pay at the exit point

Lyon city to Lyon St Exupéry airport: €1.90 – no ticket; just pay at the exit

Use cash; have a stock of notes and coins in the car (min of €10)

Some tolls do not accept some overseas credit cards

Maps

Even if you have GPS, maps can be a good investment; you can dispose of them at the end of your pilgrimage

Buy some map/s at the first service centre (eg leaving Lyon St Exupéry airport, heading East to Belley: stop at 'L'Aire de L'Isle D'Abeau' roadside centre; good facilities and shops; ca 24 Km from airport.)

Map options include Rhône-Alpes/Michelin, Rhône-Alpes/brand-t.b.a.; 60 Km around Lyon/(will not embrace all Marist Places); France/ brand-t.b.a.; cost ca €6 to €7

Consult your map before setting the GPS, checking expected main towns en route, road/highway numbers

Be kind to your map, folding carefully after each use

Use a highlight pen or red biro as needed

Local/town maps are often available at accommodation centres; always at Tourist Information places. Ask 'Vous avez une carte de la ville, s'il vous plaît?' – or try your own language.

Internet maps

These abound; try Google

fr.mappy.com is a very useful web site for times/distances in France (use translate option if needed)

Train travel

Rail access to Marist Places (outside of Lyon) is limited to Le Puy, St Chamond and Belley/Culoz (15-20 min car drive from Belley)

Lyon has two main stations: Lyon Part-Dieu and Lyon Perrache

Lyon St Exupéry airport has its own station with good service to/from Lyon, as well as direct TGV to/from Paris

Marists traveling from Rome airport to the SM General House: take train at Fiumicino airport to 'Roma Trastevere'; there are two trains, check you have the correct one; tickets cost €8 and need to be validated before entering the platform. At 'Roma Trastevere' (car park side) take a cab to Via Poerio 63, or phone the General House to be picked up (06 589 9041; arrange beforehand, of course)

Bus travel (no information, sorry)

Accommodation (see 'Where to stay')

Basin taps are often marked 'C' and 'F'; 'C' is 'chaud' (= hot; not 'C' for cold); 'F' is 'froid'/cold

Bath towels at budget accommodation places are sometimes very tiny; don't be surprised or waste time complaining

Internet access/Wifi

Wifi is widely available,

Most accommodation places, even small ones, have Wifi, usually free

Some charge

Pronounced in FR: 'wee-fee'

Some places have cable access in rooms

Consider taking an Internet access device but only if your ISP offers 'add-on' deals; organise before leaving your home country or online—otherwise you may face huge bills

If there is trouble sending outgoing emails, if using 'client mail' (eg bigpond, etc) you may need to go to 'accounts'/'servers' and check/change the 'outgoing mail server' address or tick the box 'my account needs authentication'; if using 'webmail' (eg gmail, yahoo, hotmail, etc) most services work; some (mysteriously) do not.

Cameras, computers, phone

Keep them out of sight, even in the car; use the boot/trunk or cover with a coat, etc

Back-up all new computer documents to an external device – carry the back-up device in a separate bag (not with the computer)

Bring electrical power point adaptor/s (check with Google, as needed)

Seasons

In advance, check weather (through Google – eg ‘weather in France’) to assist choice of clothing

Temperatures vary within the Marist Places (eg La Neylière is colder than Lyon)

Accommodation rates can vary with the season

Luggage

Use lots of identification

ID inside and outside

Use distinctive coloured strap/ribbon

Toilets

- Usually marked on town maps
- Often signed ‘WC’ (FR ‘vay say’) or ‘Toilettes’ (FR ‘lay twah let’)
- When in special need simply say ‘le WC?’ with a hopeful look
